

Back at Bub's

Drivin' into Sunderland, state of Mass.
Past Trader Joe's and discount gas
Low slung building on your right
That's Bub's Bar-B-Que now in sight
Since nineteen-seventy-nine renowned
As the best New England barbecue joint around.

Back at Bub's
Back at Bub's
Hickory smoke and spicy rubs
Back at Bub's.

There's barbecued spare ribs, baby backs
Kielbasa links, hush puppy snacks
Angus burger and T-bone steak
Catfish raised in a southern lake
Brisket, chicken, fresh pulled pork
Get a load of heaven on your fork.

You get free sides with every order
Fill your platter, you'll need a porter
Cole slaw, peas, and collard greens
Sweet potatoes and ranch baked beans
Pasta salad and dirty rice
Black-eyed peas, well, ain't it nice!

Soon another pig has met its fate
Spare rib bones piled on your plate
Now loosen your belt a notch or two
There's still some great desserts for you
Sweet potato and pecan pies
Deep-fried Twinkies—hoo! family size!

Well, the ribs are gone now, so's the pie
Time to bid ol' Bub's goodbye
Bye-bye ribs and bye-bye brisket
I'd eat more but I can't risk it
"Farewell, friends" from Bub's rib shack—
That's Massachusetts for "Y'all come back!"

Hickory smoke and dry spice rubs
Fat back! Baby back! Back at Bub's!
